LOCAL SDCH VOLUNTEER WINS AWARD

Bountiful, Utah, October 15, 2008 – In August, South Davis Community Hospital (SDCH) held their annual Volunteer Appreciation Banquet. The evening honored the valued volunteers and the selfless acts of service they perform for the patients and residents of SDCH. Mr. Collie Bowers was named as the SDCH Volunteer of the Year. He has been a volunteer since 2006, donating approximately 60 hours a month of his time and talents to assist patients. He especially enjoys helping with outings such as taking the pediatric patients to the zoo, museums or sporting events. He is an expert Yahtzee player, an excellent listener, and enjoys sharing life stories – all talents he lovingly shares with the residents.

Mr. Bowers was also recognized by the Utah Health Care Association (UHCA) for his remarkable volunteering efforts, as nominated by SDCH. He was named as one of the Association's four Volunteers of the Year during their 46th annual fall convention held September 30. SDCH is grateful for the gift of time Mr. Bowers and all of the volunteers provide to our patients and for the valuable assistance it gives the hospital staff.
